1	He's very determined to succeed. If an opportunity .... for him, he..... for it. a. rises/goes b. rises/'ll go c. rised/'d go	b. rises/'ll go	This is a first conditional sentence. It is possible to happen. We can infer the possibility from "He's determined to success" sentence.
2	If the machine ..... immediately, just ..... the lever manually. a. didn't start/turn b. doesn't start/turn c. didn't start/turned	b. doesn't start/turn	This is a first conditional clause. We can use imperatives in the second clause.
3	I'm broke after a shopping day again. If I ..... so much money on clothes, I ... some more money now. a. didn't spend/'d have b. hadn't spent/'d have had c. hadn't spent/'d have	c. hadn't spent/'d have	This is a mixed type conditional. We are talking about the present results of the past events. The speaker doesn't have any money and he regrets it now.
4	My neighbors were really annoying people. If I ..... from there, I ..... in a psychologist. a. didn't move/'d end up b. don't move/will end up c. hadn't moved/'d have ended up	c. hadn't moved/'d have ended up	This is a third type conditional. We're talking about an imaginary situation in the past. The speaker moved from that place, and the situation is impossible now.
5	My exam results are terrible. If ..... more, I .....at least a few lessons in the exam. a. had studied/could have passed b. studied/would pass c. studied/could have passed	a. had studied/could have passed	We're talking about an imaginary situation in the past. The speaker didn't study for his exam. He's imagining he studied and the result of it. The speaker can't pass with his exam scores now.
6	If you ..... me a hand to finish my work on time, I.....you my game console. a. give/lend b. give/will lend c. gave/would lend	b. give/will lend	This is a possible situation in present. The speaker will give his console when the condition is realized.
7	I'm studying chemistry right now. If I ..... enough time, I ..... you tonight. a. had/would call b. have/will call c. have/call	b. have/will call	This is a possible situation in future. The speaker will call him when the condition is met.
8	I didn't get any invitation to the party. If I ..... an invitation now, I.....to that party. a. had/'d go b. have/will go c. had had/would have gone	a. had/'d go	We're talking about an imaginary situation in present. The speaker does not have the invitation now. He's imagining the situation.
9	If Emily ..... a good student, she ..... for the exam yesterday. a. were/would study b. were/studied c. was/would have studied	c. was/would have studied	This is a mixed clause. We're mixing second conditional with third conditional. The speaker states a current situation and its relation to it. Emily is a bad student, so she didn't study for the exam yesterday.
10	Please ..... him that he needs to call Mary if you ..... to see him. a. tell/happen b. will tell/happen c. tell/happened	a. tell/happen	This is a first conditional type. We can use imperative form in the result clause (...tell him that...) It is a situation possible to happen.
